

COMING SOON

Derivatives 2007

MEETING THE CHALLENGE OF CHANGE

The FOA is pleased to announce the publication of Derivatives 2007

The FOA's annual yearbook focuses on the challenges and opportunities facing the industry, with guest contributions and interviews with key industry figures on the latest developments that are taking place and the challenges facing today's global markets.

Derivatives 2007, the eighth in the series, continues to provide a useful insight into the industry and reference work for market participants, their customers and others who have an interest in the derivatives industry.

Derivatives 2007 features articles on traditional exchange traded financial derivatives; credit derivatives; equities; energy, power and the environment; agriculture and soft commodities; precious and base metals; operations and support; technology; emerging markets; and exchange competition/consolidation.

Guest contributors in Derivatives 2007 include:

- Ed Balls MP, Economic Secretary to the Treasury
- Reuben Jeffery III, Chairman of the Commodity Futures Trading Commission (CFTC)
- Arthur Docters van Leeuwen, Chairman of the Committee of European Securities Regulators (CESR)
- Dr Thomas F Huertas, Director, Wholesale Firms Division and Banking Sector Leader, Financial Services Authority (FSA)

Plus the traditional forewords by Roy Leighton, Chairman, and Anthony Belchambers, Chief Executive of the FOA and Anthony Hilton, Financial Editor, London Evening Standard.

All FOA members will receive a copy of *Derivatives 2007.
For further complimentary copies please email your request to derivatives2007@newsdeskmedia.com

Derivatives 2007* is published by Newsdesk Communications Ltd on behalf of the Futures and Options Association (FOA)